

The SDSU MHIRT Program is now recruiting for summer 2018!

SDSU MHIRT is a component of the national MHIRT program funded by the National Institutes of Health. We offer international training experiences to students from health disparity backgrounds with a goal of encouraging such students to pursue careers in biomedical, clinical, and behavioral health research.

Open to:

- Rising Juniors and Seniors
- matriculating seniors who will be entering into an advanced degree program in fall 2018
- master's level students

Conduct basic-science, biomedical, and public health research in one of three different countries: Peru, Taiwan, or Uganda

Why MHIRT?

- Research important health issues
- Gain invaluable experience in a research lab
- Explore a new country and experience a new culture
- Earn a summer stipend
- Paid travel expenses

Learn more at MHIRT.com and apply online!

Application period opens October 2, 2017

Required application materials:

- ✓ Online application form
- ✓ Statement of purpose
- ✓ Transcripts
- ✓ 2 Letters of Recommendation

*Applications due December 15, 2017

Questions?

Program Director, Dena Plemmons, Ph.d.

plemmons@mail.sdsu.edu

Program Coordinator, Kathy Kemp, M.A.

kkemp@mail.sdsu.edu